To Whom It May Concern:

One of the most unpleasant things you will ever experience is falling victim to the havoc that weather can create. In the Midwestern part of the country, we see swift, drastic changes in temperature that will convert a rainy day into a hailstorm. In addition to converting rain into hail, this weather also converts nice, new and pre-owned vehicles into dented vehicles with cracked windshields and broken cowl.

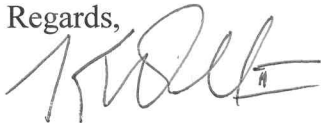

The possibility of repairing these vehicles incorrectly is very common, especially if the company that you hire to perform these repairs do not know what they are doing. With lack of knowledge there is a strong chance that they are not going to fully repair the dents and damage and the vehicle may very well look worse than it did initially.

It is imperative that you have your dent repair services performed by a reputable company. While the investment might be more substantial, utilizing experienced repair professionals will ensure you will not require additional repairs.

It is with much enthusiasm that I am writing to recommend the dent repair services of International Fleet Solutions. Tracy and his team of professionals, led by Bobby Montgomery, took an unpleasant experience and made it palpal. In the 30 years of my automotive career, I have never encountered a company with such transparency of cost, speed, efficiency and quality of work.

It was a pleasure working with everyone from International Fleet Solutions.
